Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know It.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney poison in the blood is liable to attack the vital organs, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell. Then the richness of the blood—the albumen—leaks out and the sufferer has Bright's Disease, the worst form of kidney trouble. Kidney trouble can be detected although it be slow and deceptive. First, by analysis of the urine; second, by the simple test of setting the urine aside in a glass or bottle for twenty-four hours, when a cloudy or brick dust settling indicates it.

It was for just such troubles that in His infinite power and goodness the Great Physician caused Swamp Root to grow for the benefit of suffering mankind, leaving it for His servant, Dr. Kilmer, the great kidney and bladder specialist to discover it and make it known to the world. Its wonderful efficacy in promptly curing the most distressing cases is truly marvelous. You may have a sample bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root the great kidney, liver, and bladder remedy, by mail free.

Grain For Breeding Males.

At this time of year the mating of boars and sows and of rams with ewes will soon begin. Some grain for the males to keep them in good condition without fattening them is very important. If the male runs down from lack of nourishing food, either the progeny will be weak and lacking in vigor or the breeding may be entirely prevented. The best of all grain foods for keeping the male in vigor is oats, given whole to rams and as ground meal to boars. Rye is sometimes used to bring the sow or ewe in heat, as the ergot which it usually contains has a stimulating effect, but for the same reason it should be kept from animals after they have been bred, as it may cause abortion.—Boston Cultivator.

Sheep Ticks.

Sheep ticks are a greater pest than any disease, as it is as hard to find a flock without some of them as it is to find a flock of poultry without lice, but if the sheep and lambs are dipped in tobacco water just after shearing they can be kept down so as to do but little harm. The dip should not be as strong for lambs as for old sheep, nor need it be when but few ticks are present. As some tobacco is much stronger than others no invariable formula can be given, but if not very strong it will do if well rubbed in to reach the skin.

Clipping Horses.

The idea that a horse's digestion and general condition are improved by clipping his coat is an absurdity. A horse cannot digest his food if he is constantly shivering, and blankets cannot take the place of his hair for warmth. The greatest exponents of clipping are grooms who are too lazy thoroughly to groom a horse which has a long coat of hair. It is utterly useless to try to improve on nature in that respect, and clipping should be discontinued as a barbarous practice.—Popular Science.

LIGHTS OUT.

How often in our little boat
On summer evenings we would float.
Careless of time, of east and west,
Ceasing from idle talk and jest,
As o'er the waters' restless flow,
Drifted in cadence sweet and low,
That plaintive bugle call—
"Lights out!"

How through the old fort it would ring,
Strange echoes from the casemates bring,
While we would wait, our oars at rest
Upon the river's peaceful breast,
And watch the yellow lamp gleams die
At the silvery warning sigh
Of that plaintive bugle call—
"Lights out!"

* * * * * * *

From faroff camp, from land of fears,
O'er wastes of distance, parting, tears,
Comes the familiar sound of old,
Our life in darkness to enfold.
Alone, upon life's troubled sea,
The fateful message comes to me,
Of that plaintive bugle call—
"Lights out!"
—Gertrude F. Lynch in Chap Book.

$50,000 IN GOLD.

A perfect stranger walked into the Sidcup branch of the London and Miscellaneous bank and asked to see the manager.

"Excuse my troubling you," he said, "but you may be interested to know that there is a scheme on foot for the burgling of this bank. As I happened to be passing, I thought I'd look in and tell you."

The manager, Mr. Julian Foster, expressed his skepticism with appropriate pomposity.

"My dear sir, a burglary at the London and Miscellaneous bank! You must be dreaming!"

"I hope I am," replied the other. "And, if so, I owe you an apology. Anyhow, I'm not rounding on any pals, and I'm not asking money for the information. Fact is, I overheard a conversation that wasn't meant for me in a public house—at least I overheard scraps of it—and I'm very much mistaken if the burglary of your bank wasn't the leading idea of the dialogue."

Mr. Julian Foster, while expressing his gratitude, poohpoohed the warning. "Still, as I said," the manager continued, "I'm very much obliged to you, and, supposing it should turn out that you have been well informed, the directors would naturally be very glad"—

"Never mind about that. I'm not on the make. I only came and told you because I thought you'd like to know. By by! Load up the shotgun and look out!"

He shook hands and hurried off without even troubling to mention his name and address, and Mr. Julian Foster leaned back in his chair and turned the matter over in his mind.

"Hum!" he soliloquized. "I wonder."

The Sidcup branch was certainly easier to rob than most. It was situated in a new house, the lease of which had been bought cheap from a stationer whose business had been unsuccessful. The safe, which stood in the back parlor, was of a very simple and ordinary kind.

On the other hand, the branch was not, as a rule, worth robbing. It did very little business, existing mainly for the purpose of raking in deposits, and very little in the way of cash or other negotiable securities was ever kept there.

On the following Wednesday, however, the branch would, for the first time in its history, be in a position to repay any burglar for his trouble. To meet the views of a particular depositor in the company promoting business, who had given notice of withdrawal, there would be $50,000 in the safe.

Mr. Julian Foster, like most bank managers, was good at arithmetic, and he put two and two together.

"Burglars," he reflected, "like policemen, usually act upon information received, though heaven only knows where they get it from! If there's any idea of breaking into this bank, I think we may take it that the attempt will be made while that money is on the premises."

That very afternoon he began his preparations for giving the intruders a warm reception. As soon as banking hours were over he went up to town and bought a revolver. It was a weapon he was used to, and he practiced sufficiently to satisfy himself that he retained a considerable skill with it. Then, by degrees, his plan of campaign developed itself.

"The simplest way, I suppose," he meditated, "would be to get the police to keep an extra lookout on Wednesday, or I might get a special plain clothes officer down from headquarters. But where should I come in? The bank wouldn't give me a service of plate, with promotion to follow, for that, and I should look a pretty fool if it turned out to be a false alarm."

So he took no one into his confidence, but thought out a scheme.

Wednesday came, and with it came the messenger from Lothbury with the gold—$50,000—tied up securely in ten leather bags. He helped Mr. Foster to lock them away in the safe, on the inadequacy of which he commented over a glass of sherry and a cigarette.

"I'm glad you noticed it," the manager replied. "You'll support my application for a better one. In the meantime, however, I've got this."

He brought the six shooter out of the drawer of the desk and showed that it was loaded.

Mr. Foster meditated till dinner time. He meditated over his chop and bread and cheese. He went on meditating over his whisky and water afterward.

"Gold—yes, there is enough gold there to stir any man's cupidity—the more especially as gold can't be traced. If any burglar knows about those sovereigns, that burglar will turn up tonight.

"Accidents will happen. Burglars aren't over scrupulous. Sometimes they work with six shooters, sometimes with chloroform pads. They might happen to overpower me, and then they would not have much difficulty with the safe. Perhaps for the moment the safe isn't really the best place to keep those bags of gold in."

He thought that matter out. The problem was a delicate one. Supposing the gold to be stolen, then, if by any accident it could be proved that it had been stolen from any place except the safe, clearly it would be a very serious matter for him.

So midnight arrived before Mr. Foster, who had in the meantime been to his bedroom to put on his dressing gown and slippers, made up his mind what to do.

"By Jove! I have it!" he exclaimed at last. "Hanged if those beautiful jerry builders haven't left a plank loose in the floor! The very thing!"

Working as quietly as if he had been a burglar himself, he stripped back a bit of the felting, lifted the loose plank and slipped the ten bags underneath it, one after the other; then by judiciously driving in little wedges which he cut from the firewood he made the plank tighter than it had been before and once more fastened the felting neatly over it.

"Now, Mr. Burglar," he said, "everything's ready. I'll retire to my hiding place and wait for you."

As the front of the bank faced the street, there was no probability of burglars entering that way. They would come, if they came, over the garden wall and through the kitchen. So Mr. Foster withdrew into the bank itself and watched developments in the bank parlor through a peephole which he had bored in the door with a gimlet.

The hours dragged on, trying his patience sorely. It must have been between 3 and 4 in the morning when a slight noise, which obviously was neither the rattling of a window nor the snoring of the housekeeper, arrested his attention. The door by which the bank parlor communicated with the private part of the house was being tried.

In a minute or two the lock was forced and two men entered. Both of them were masked, and one of them carried a little bag of tools.

It was too dark for him to observe their methods with exactitude. So far as he could judge, they forced the lock gradually by driving in filmy plates of steel to act as wedges until at last the jimmy could be inserted and the proper leverage brought to bear.

The process took about 40 minutes. At the end of that time the door of the strong box was open, and the thieves were pulling all sorts of papers out of it in their eager quest for bags of gold. The psychological moment had arrived.

"What in thunder!" Mr. Foster exclaimed and burst in upon them, firing as he came.

One of the men fired back at him, and for ten seconds or so there was a quick exchange of shots in the half light. When it had ceased and Mary's screams from the top windows had brought the constables, one of the burglars lay stretched out with a broken leg before the violated safe. The other had escaped over the garden wall, leaving a trail of blood behind him, while the bank manager himself had a grazed cheek and a nasty flesh wound in the shoulder.

A doctor, following hard on the heels of the policeman, dressed his wounds and assured him that they were not serious. He pulled himself together and gave his version of the story.

"I was too late—too late; the other chap got away. He's carried off $50,000. It's all the bank's fault for having such a silly safe."

"Ah, well," said the doctor philosophically, "$50,000 won't break the London and Miscellaneous! In fact, speaking as a shareholder, I shouldn't wonder if the directors found they'd got a bit over to do something for you. They ought to, anyhow."

And they did. They paid Mr. Foster's doctor's bill, and they gave him the service of plate which he had promised himself, and then expressed the greatest regret when, a few months afterward, he announced his intention of retiring from their employment on the ground that "a fortunate speculation had released him from the necessity of working for his living." —London Answers.

The Minutest of Shells.

Among the minute existences upon the face of the globe that have been elevated by means of the microscope into an honored position of independence are the foraminefera, mostly marine atoms inhabiting many chambered cells. At one time they were considred mollusca, at another they were ranked among the infusoria and eventually they were settled comfortably in the subkingdom protozoa. The calcareous shells have in the past formed vast deposits of chalk. They are often today congregated as realms of sand.

These animals are not always minute, but generally they are subjects imperatively demanding the lens. An ounce of sand has been known to contain 6,000 of their shells, and in the West Indies the figure once ran into millions. Your object under the naked eye seems to be merely a pinch of brown sand; under the microscope you have a great variety of the loveliest lilliputian shells, representing every variety of form known to the conchologist.

The Footsteps In the Sand.

We toiled on for life—bare life. Then imagine our amazement when on the long surface of a dune we perceived human footsteps imprinted in the sand! Down we went on our knees and examined them. There was no doubt of it. They were the footprints of human beings. Surely we could not be very far off from the river now. In an instant we were wide awake. We followed up the trail till we came to the top of a dune, where the sand was driven together in a hard, compact mass, and the footprints could be more distinctly made out. Kasim dropped on his knees, then cried in a scarcely audible voice, "They are our own footsteps!" "Through Asia," by Sven Hedin.

HORSE AND RIDER.

How to Sit In the Saddle and Handle the Reins.

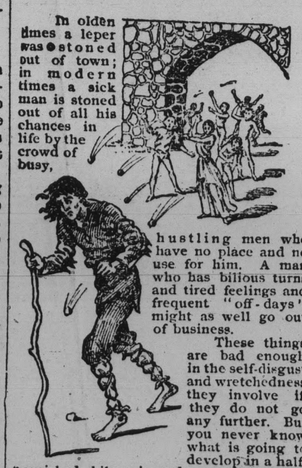
One does not necessarily need be a lover of a horse to be a good rider, says Frank Tallmadge in The Breeder's Gazette, but it is a help in a great measure in learning and it is quite necessary for the full enjoyment of it. A riding master was once asked by a young lady how long it would take her to learn to ride. The master replied, "How long have you been taking lessons on the piano?" "Two years," said the miss, "but I am not proficient enough to play in public as yet." "Then," said the master, "don't expect nearly so soon to learn to ride horseback, for a piano never changes its gait, never shies, remains all the time passive, subject to your will. You must not expect to learn nearly so soon how to ride and handle an animal that is sensitive, subject to change of temper and wise enough to know the moral strength of its rider."

The proper position or seat in the saddle can best be taught a lady by one of her own sex. It is much easier to attain the proper seat by receiving the necessary instruction before and at the time of taking the first ride. This is apparent to all, for a wrong posture once assumed in the saddle is very hard to overcome. As to the proper management of the horse line after line could be written, and one can receive an endless number of lessons solely upon this subject and yet not be able to put into practice the first principle of his readings and teachings without long experience. This arises from the fact that horses, like people, are of different dispositions and have what horsemen call different mouths.

It is agreed by all teachers of equitation that the curb bit alone in a horse's mouth will sooner make a fool out of a horse than anything else, and a fool horse generally carries a fool rider. The proper bitting is the old English style of two bits—a curb and a snaffle—and two sets of reins. All riders in America have been long since converted to this, except the cowboys. There are several ways to hold the double reins, any one of which is easier than holding the single set, this probably for the reason that it employs both hands and keeps them in their proper place together. The horse is not constantly fighting the curb and consequently forming bad habits. He receives the soft pressure of the snaffle, which gives him courage and confidence in his rider, and only by the use of the snaffle can the horse's head be kept in its proper high position. The curb always brings the chin into the chest, an unnatural and dangerous position, as it is quite likely to shut off a horse's wind.

Dairy Fed Pork.

Professor Woodroffe Hill, F. R. C. V. S., writing in the London Live Stock Journal, says: The sanitary condition of feeding stuff and its fitness for producing healthy and nutritious material for human consumption in relation to pork is a subject requiring far more attention, public and otherwise, than is bestowed upon it. It is high time that the sanitary inspector's veto was put on the noxious mess collected from various sources for the purpose of feeding swine and manufacturing so called dairy fed pork. The flavor of meat varies with the nature of the animal and its diet. It is repugnant to one's taste and feeling to think that creatures bred and reared for the food of man should be daily supplied with the putrid, filthy contents of the household hog washtub, seething frequently with dangerous organisms, and invariably in a state of stench and acid fermentation. Dairy fed pork is a luxury when it can be obtained, but how often is the article put on the market? I have witnessed entrails and paunches taken warm from the newly slaughtered sheep, and, containing the ingesta, thrown to the pigs to scramble over and devour, their own carcasses subsequently being sold as dairy fed pork, milk and meal never having played any part in their diet.



In olden times a leper was stoned out of town; in modern times a sick man is stoned out of all his chances in life by the crowd of busy, hustling men who have no place and no use for him. A man who has bilious turns and tired feelings and frequent "off-days" might as well go out of business.

These things are bad enough in the self-disgust and wretchedness they involve if they do not go any further. But you never know what is going to develop in a half-nourished, bile-poisoned constitution. If a man as soon as he feels that he is not getting the forceful strength and energy out of his food that he ought to, will begin taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, he will soon put himself in the position where he can do a man's work easily and cheerfully.

His appetite will be sharpened; his liver invigorated; his digestion strengthened; an edge put on his whole nutritive organism. Those subtle poisons which debilitate the entire organism and invite consumption and a host of other diseases, will be driven out of the system; and he will gain plenty of pure nourishing red blood, muscle-power and nerve-force. In short he will be a man among men.

There are hundreds of delusive temporary stimulants, "malt extracts," sarsaparillas and compounds, which are more or less "boomed" by merely profit-seeking druggists; but an honest druggist will give you the "Golden Medical Discovery" when you ask for it. If well-informed, he knows that its sales have steadily increased for thirty years and that it is the invention of an educated, authorized physician who has devoted a life-time of active practice and profound study to chronic diseases.

Notice of Business Change.

The old saying that "the unlooked-for always happens" may be true in the present instance. The Sonoma News is no more! Having sold the paper and its good will to Mr. Granice, the business and subscription books pass into his hands. Those who are in arrears for their paper will please pay Mr. Granice and those who have paid in advance will receive the INDEX-TRIBUNE to full extent of their subscriptions.

There are three reasons I might give for making this change. It is well known that I did not buy the News with the intention of running it myself. A person usually sells a commercial commodity when the price asked is accepted. The third reason is the more potent one—our patronizing territory is too limited to properly support two weekly newspapers.

But we do need and must have for the weal of the commonwealth one good, wide-awake paper, which shall be alive to the best interests of our people, and such a paper Mr. Granice will be able to furnish us providing he has the good will and support his paper merits. So we sincerely hope all our subscribers and patrons will lend a hand.

With a thank you to our friends and wishes for the success of the INDEX-TRIBUNE we break our quill.

E. E. THOMPSON.

Sonoma, Jan. 3, 1899.

NOTWITHSTANDING the great hue and cry that has been set up by the metropolitan press, the Chronicle excepted, against U. S. Grant and his political methods, the old man still maintains the lead in the Senatorial race. So far the investigation set on foot to inquire into the charges of bribery and corruption has not panned out very well in so far as Mr. Grant is concerned. The most serious offense that has been committed by his manager, Milton Green, was the loaning of a sum of money to his fr[illegible] Speaker Wright, before he ever received the Republican nomination for Assemblyman.

ASSEMBLYMAN THOMPSON testified the other day before the Investigation Committee of the Legislature that Milton Green, who is managing U. S. Grant's political affairs, that he Green, just before the election shook a whole fistful of twenties before his (Thompson's) eyes, and the most remarkable thing of all was that the Assemblyman spurned the filthy lucre. The idea of an Assemblyman spurning anything in the shape of a twenty-dollar gold piece is preposterous. We cannot account for the phenomenon except upon the hypothesis that Thompson, the sly coon, must have thought that coin was bogus.

THE indictment by the Grand Jury of W. W. Chapman of Petaluma, charged with violating the election law by counting out Gallant Rains for the office of Supervisor, led to his arrest last Wednesday. The crime for which Chapman is to stand trial in the the Superior Court is a most heinous one and should it be proven to the satisfaction of twelve jurors that he had a hand in falsifying the result of the election in Wilson precinct he should be given the full penalty of the law.

SPEAKER WRIGHT of the Assembly ought to step down and out.

MAJOR GENERAL SHAFTER, the hero of Santiago, to whom twenty-three thousand Spaniards surrendered, arrived in San Francisco on Wednesday evening.

ASSEMLYMAN COWAN has introduced several bills in the Lower House to provide additional buildings, electric power and lights and an improved water system for the California Home at Eldridge.

IT is stated that a San Francisco man is paying 1 cent a pound for the roots of a certain variety of Oregon grape vine. The roots are used in making a new patent medicine.

The vote on the motion was as follows:

Supervisor Putnam, No.
Supervisor Austin, No.
Supervisor McMinn, Aye.
Supervisor Rains Aye.

Delicate Children

They do not complain of anything in particular. They eat enough, but keep thin and pale. They appear fairly well, but have no strength. You cannot say they are really sick, and so you call them delicate.

What can be done for them? Our answer is the same that the best physicians have been giving for a quarter of a century. Give them of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. It has most remarkable nourishing power. It gives color to the blood. It brings strength to the muscles. It adds power to the nerves. It means robust health and vigor. Even delicate infants rapidly gain in flesh if given a small amount three or four times each day.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS.

James Ahern Passes Away.

James Ahern, for the past ten years a resident of this valley, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. L. H. Green, in this place, on Friday night of last week. Mr. Ahern had been ailing for several months and his death was not unexpected. The deceased was a farmer for many years near Lakeville, from which place he removed to Embarcadero in 1889 where he followed the same occupation. Mr. Ahern was a widower, his wife having died over 25 years ago. The deceased was a native of County Cork, Ireland, and aged 67 years and two months. He was the father of Mrs. L. H. Green of this place, Mrs. Thomas Bradley and Henry, James and Sarah Ahern.

The funeral took place from St. Vincent's Church, Petaluma, Monday morning at 10 o'clock, the deceased being laid beside his wife in the Catholic Cemetery of that city.

The Run of Salmon Has Commenced.

The rain of the past two weeks has set all the mountain streams a booming. Sonoma creek is fairly swarming with salmon and trout on their way to their spawning grounds near the headwaters of Agua Caliente, Hooker, Fowler, Stuart and the other small creeks on the east and west sides of the valley. Fishermen are looking forward to fine sport next April. A number of salmon have already been caught with hook and line in tide water at Embarcadero, some of them weighing between twelve and fifteen pounds.

Electric Lights and the Storm.

The recent storm caused considerable trouble to the Sonoma Electric Light plant. Wires became crossed and rain penetrated the globes of the incandescent lights and impaired their illuminating powers and in several instances extinguished the lights altogether. Both line repairers were down with la grippe and it was not until Monday morning that a lineman could be secured to repair the damage.

Camp's Home Laundry.

Mr. and Mrs. Camp, residing on Russia street near Broadway, have been encouraged by many people in this place to start up a laundry and are now taking orders for washing. These worthy people, who have a family of four children dependent upon them, should be encouraged by the people of this town and valley. Work will be called for and delivered by wagon and all orders will be promptly attended to.

Epidemic of Colds.

The epidemic of colds which has prevailed in this valley the past five or six weeks has not in the least abated and almost every family in the valley has been attacked. The doctors have been kept busy attending patients and have been very successful in their treatment. The symptoms are similar to la grippe.

THE ELECTION FRAUDS IN WILSON

W. W. Chapman Arrested by Sheriff Grace.

He is Admitted to Bail in the Sum of $1500.

W. W. Chapman of Petaluma, one of the inspectors of election in Wilson precinct, where Gallant Rains was counted out in the late election, was arrested Wednesday by Sheriff Grace and taken before Judge Burnett for arraignment.

The indictment by the Grand Jury was read to him. It charged him with maliciously, wilfully and unlawfully reading twenty-seven ballots cast for Gallant Rains for Supervisor in Wilson precinct for Rains' opponent, David Walls, while he acted as inspector.

With bent head, and evidently feeling his position acutely, Mr. Chapman listened to the reading of the indictment by Clerk Hall. The court appointed J. M. Thompson to represent him and fixed his bail bond at $1500. which was subsequently filed with W. R. Veale and H. P. Brainerd of Petaluma as sureties.

W. W. Chapman, is a prominent farmer and business man of Petaluma, and is the father of Will Chapman, a young society blood of Santa Rosa, who was recently found guilty of embezzlement in the Superior Court of this county and is now serving out a sentence of several years in San Quentin for his crime.

WALTER F. PRICE.

Appointed Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue.

Walter F. Price of Santa Rosa has been appointed Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue of the Fourth Revenue District of California vice T. J. Dunn, who has been transferred to Grass Valley. Mr. Dunn took charge of this district in October, 1896, and has been a very painstaking and efficient official.

His successor, Walter F. Price, is a well-known Republican of this county. He was elected to the Assembly two years ago and made a very good record. At the time he received the notification of his appointment in the revenue service he was serving as Assistant Filing Clerk in the Lower House of the Legislature now in session at Sacramento. Mr. Price has many friends in Sonoma who will be pleased to learn that he now has a comfortable Government position.

The Effect of the Late Storm.

Tubbs' Island, the levees around which gave away during the late storm, is still under water and at high tide the island presents the appearance of a vast lake. About 1000 acres of young grain on the island will no doubt be ruined. The Rose and other hay farms at Reclamation are also badly over flowed, but it is thought that the breaks in the levee can be repaired at that point so as to save most of the crop. Five of the six boats belonging to the Alameda Gun Club, which went astray during the storm, have been recovered. One was found near Suisun.

Bon-Ton Shaving Parlor.

W. E. Langrebe, the well-known barber, who has been located next door to the Sonoma House the past five or six months, has bought out Louis Larsen's shop and after next Monday will be pleased to meet his old customers as well as new ones at his new location, which will be known as the Bon-Ton Shaving Parlor. Mr. Langrebe is a first-class artist and shaves as slick as grease, and we bespeak for him a share of the public patronage.

Petition for Pardon.

A petition is being circulated and numerously signed praying Governor Gage to pardon Antonio Rigoni, who was sentenced last June to serve eighteen months in Folsom prison for assault with a deadly weapon. The prisoner was never in any trouble before and bears a good reputation. He has a young wife who is about to become a mother and being without means needs his assistance.

Weather and Crops.

The weather since the recent rains has been all that could be desired by our farmers and dairymen and hill and vale are putting on a bright mantle of green.

The weather is warm and pleasant as we go to press.

THE GRAND JURY MAKES ITS REPORT.

Indictment Found for Violating the Election Law.

Recommend that the Office of Auditor and Recorder be Segregated—Other Matters.

The Grand Jury, which convened in Santa Rosa on October 7th, completed its labors last Tuesday afternoon. The report, which is a lengthy one, makes a number of recommendations which ought to be carried out. Following is a resume of the report: Six criminal cases were investigated and two indictments found, one for embezzlement and the other for knowingly and fraudulently acting in controvention or violating the election law.

The affairs of the county were found to be in a satisfactory condition and the Grand Jury express their appreciation of the efficiency, fidelity and honesty of the county officials.

The County Clerk's office was found to be in excellent shape and the jury say they found little to criticise and much to commend. As a measure of economy they recommended that shelves for numerous indexes and other books in common use be procured. Accommodations should also be provided for other books needing shelf room. They also recommended a slight rearrangement of the desks by which some degree of privacy would be given the deputy clerks in drawing attachments or other papers requiring secrecy.

The jury found the affairs of the Auditor's office apparently in a very satisfactory condition. In common with other grand juries they recommend the segregation of the auditor's office, and urge the Supervisors to take action in the matter.

The affairs of the Recorder's office were found in good condition, and the jury recommends slight repairs being made in the building. Suggestions are made as to a more economical way in which the building can be heated.

The jury found the Sheriff's office well conducted, the books and accounts accurate. Recommendations are made regarding the repairs to the ceiling over the front entrance to the Sheriff's office, it having settled by reason of the increasing weight from the Clerk's office.

The jury found that the License Collector should have been a little more punctual in the collection of license money. The county licenses should be collected as they are in towns and cites, in strict accordance with law and without favoring anybody.

The books and records of the assessor's office were found in good order and properly kept.

The Treasurer's office was found by the jury to be conducted in a business-like way, the books kept neatly and the accounts true and correct. A thorough renovation of the rooms is recommended.

The affairs of the County Surveyor and Coroner and Public Administrator were found to be in a satisfactory condition. Valuable records required to be kept in the Surveyor's office should have better protection than the wooden furniture in which they are kept.

The grand jury had no fault to find with the affairs in the office of the Superintendent of Schools.

The way in which District Attorney Seawell conducted the duties of the District Attorney's office was very highly commended by the grand jury.

The management of the County Farm and Hospital was found deserving of special praise by the jury, who highly commended their thoroughly efficient management of the affairs of their respective departments. A recommendation is made that the new reservoir be suitably covered. Another recommendation is, that should the supply of water from the new system be sufficient that a four-inch main be laid and connected with the distributing pipes of the various county buildings and grounds, with the view of supplying the same with all the water necessary for the purpose for which it is used. This, the grand jury was informed, will not exceed the cost of $3500, and would prove a matter of great economy to the county. In the matter of receiving supplies the grand jury urge greater care should be used. Another recommendation is that the Board of Supervisors investigate the matter and if there be any law to enforce it, that near relatives, when able, be compelled to care for their own poor, and not place them as burdens upon the county.

The work of the Board of Supervisors in their management of the county finances is commended. They are asked to take action in the matter of the suggestion regarding the segregation of the offices of Auditor and Recorder, and the removal of the office of the Auditor to the rooms in the court house known as Horticultural Hall. The efforts of the Supervisors' in securing good, permanent roads is earnestly recommended. The sprinkling of the county roads was heartily favored by the grand jury. In the judgment of the grand jury the roads should be properly thrown up and gravelled before they are sprinkled, and it was the sense of the jury to expend money on the roads by sprinkling where they have not been properly graded is a waste of money that should not be made. They further recommend that one of the janitors be employed as night watchman at the court house.

In commending the general condition of the Sheriff's office the grand jury very much regretted they were unable to likewise commend the management of the county jail. The sanitary conditions were found to be bad, the cells neglected as regards sanitation, the clothing furnished by the county for the prisoners had not been properly cared for and preserved, and a request is made that the present Sheriff see that an entire change takes place in the management of of the department.

The City Dads.

At the regular meeting of the City Trustees held Wednesday evening a full Board was present as follows: Trustees Duhring, Davis, Hartin, Harris and Seipp.

After the minutes of the last meeting of the Board had been read by Clerk Poppe and approved the regular monthly bills were allowed and ordered paid as follow:

Wm. Green, lumber,	$43.35
H. Mumfrey, labor, etc.	13.75
Sonoma Electric Light Co., lighting,	33.75
F. T. Duhring, supplies,	1.35
Total	$92.20

Trustee Davis presented Ordinance No. 62, amending section 6 of Ordinance No. 33, relating to charges for burials in Mountain Cemetery, and the same was read by the Clerk and passed to a second reading.

The Board then stood adjourned.

The law provides for remuneration when it is necessary to adjourn school for institute purposes; but in this instance there was a general vacation on account of the holidays and hence no pay can be secured.

Windsor wants a calaboose, says the Healdsburg Enterprise—not that our thriving little neighbor down that way is breaking the record for lawlessness, or anything of that sort, but because the rapidity with which the town is growing creates a necessity for a jail. Constable W. B. Pool appeared before the Supervisors Tuesday and endeavored to interest that body in the matter. The people of Windsor want the Supervisors to aid them to the extent of $50. They have already raised $64, which, with an additional $50, would be sufficient to erect a calaboose. In discussing the matter with the Supervisors, it was argued by Mr. Pool that the jail would not only be a convenience to the town of Windsor, but also an economy, saving the expense to the county usually charged for guarding prison.

Spain's Sunken Ships Floated.

Perhaps the greatest mechanical feat of the century has been the raising of some of the Spanish warships which were apparently shot to pieces at Santiago. It seemed as though it was utterly impossible to float them because of the terrible damage inflicted by our guns, but the task has been accomplished nevertheless. Diseases of the blood, stomach, liver and kidneys frequently wreck the health in a similar manner, so that there appears to be no chance of recovery. But when Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are taken, the disordered system is speedily restored to its old time vigor and tone. This has been the result times without number. The Bitters will regulate the liver, bowels and digestive functions, purify the blood, and will fill the veins with the rich, red life fluid. HOG CHOLERA REMEDY.

Dr. Salmon's Successful Use of Immune Serum.

After experiments extending over a period of 20 years and the expenditure of many thousands of dollars the United States government is at last combating successfully those most pernicious diseases, hog cholera and swine plague. The results obtained by the bureau of animal industry of the agricultural department, especially during the last year, have been highly satisfactory, and the scientists who have devoted so much time and labor to the work feel amply repaid for their efforts.

The discovery of a serum which renders hogs immune from the ravages of cholera and plague is an important one. It means a great deal to one of the foremost American industries, and the benefits arising from it are almost incalculable. The propagation of the serum requires the use of many animals. At the experiment station, where it is made, there are donkeys, cows, calves, mules and horses, all patiently submitting to the process of inoculation and blood drawing. Strange as it may appear, not a single hog is used in making the antitoxin fluid which is such a blessing to his family. Hogs have not been found well adapted to the purpose for which the government uses the other animals. Donkeys are the favorites with the experimenters.

DR. D. E. SALMON.

The station at Bethesda, Md., eight miles from Washington, is a unique institution. On the well kept farm there are dozens of horses and mules that are strangers to the plow and harness. There are cows whose days for giving milk are over, and whose lives, in the eyes of the scientist, are devoted to higher objects. The farm is presided over by Dr. Ernest O. Schroeder, a man who, although still young, has made a name in the scientific world.

Dr. D. E. Salmon, chief of the bureau of animal industry, says: "We have used serum on 1,000 animals this year and have saved over 80 per cent of herds treated. While the treatment was going on observations were made of 1,100 hogs in other herds not treated for the lack of serum, and 80 per cent died. Last year the percentage of hogs saved out of 240 treated was 75, while in other herds not treated 85 per cent died."

This is a great achievement for the bureau of animal industry, and attracts new attention to its noted chief, who was born in Morris county, N. J., July 23, 1850. He entered Cornell university at its opening and graduated in 1875 with the degree of bachelor of veterinary science. That same year he went to France and studied for two terms at the famous Alfort Veterinary school.

The appropriation by congress in 1878 of $10,000 for the investigation of animal diseases led to the appointment of several veterinarians, including Dr. Salmon, who was called from the position of nonresident lecturer on veterinary science in the University of Georgia. In 1879 New York state attempted to stamp out contagious pleuropneumonia, and Dr. Salmon was appointed on the veterinary staff as an assistant to Professor Law. Here he did excellent service, and afterward made a thorough examination of the south Atlantic seaboard, accurately outlining permanently infected districts.

Early in 1883 he was called to Washington by Commissioner Loring to establish a veterinary division in the department of agriculture. Within a year congress passed an act establishing the bureau of animal industry, Dr. Salmon being appointed chief, a position which he at present holds.

During his term of service a large number of investigations have been made under his direction. In 1883 he was appointed by President Arthur a member of the commission to investigate the quality of American pork products and the prevalence of trichiniasis, his report on the subject being received as conclusive and unquestionable. In addition to the exhaustive labors attached to the bureau of animal industry Dr. Salmon has also charge of the quarantine of imported animals.

As a recognition of his efforts on behalf of veterinary science, Dr. Salmon had recently conferred upon him the degree of honorary association by the Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons of Great Britain, the highest professional honor which that institution can bestow.

He is also a fellow of the American Association For the Advancement of Science and chairman of the committee on animal diseases and animal foods of the American Public Health association.

FOR THE FAMILY.

"I take pleasure in praising your valuable remedy CASCARETS and my whole family received relief from the first small box we tried. I certainly recommend CASCARETS for the cures they make and trust they will find a place in every home. Yours for success." PETER WEBB, Jr., Palm Grove Ave., McKeesport, Pa.

FOR CHILDREN.

"I shall never be without CASCARETS. My children are always delighted when I give them a portion of a tablet, and cry for more. They are the most pleasant medicine I have ever tried. They have found a permanent place in my home." MRS. JOHN FLAGG, Box 680, Michigan City, Ind.

FOR PILES.

"I suffered the tortures of the damned with protruding piles brought on by constipation with which I was afflicted for twenty years. I ran across your CASCARETS in the town of Newell, Ia., and never found anything to equal them. To-day I am entirely free from piles and feel like a new man." C. H. KEYT, 1411 Jones St., Sioux City, Ia.

FOR HEADACHE.

"Both my wife and myself have been using CASCARETS, and they are the best medicine we have ever had in the house. Last week my wife was frantic with headache for two days; she tried some of your CASCARETS and they relieved the pain in her head almost immediately. We both recommend Cascarets." CHAS. STODDONS, Pittsburgh Safe & Deposit Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.

FOR BAD BREATH.

"I have been using CASCARETS and as a mild and effective laxative they are simply wonderful. My daughter and I were bothered with sick stomach and our breath was very bad. After taking a few doses of Cascarets we have improved wonderfully. They are a great help in the family." WILHELMINA NAGEL, 1157 Rittenhouse St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

FOR PIMPLES.

"My wife had pimples on her face, but she has been taking CASCARETS and they have all disappeared. I had been troubled with constipation for some time, but after taking the first Cascaret I have had no trouble with this ailment. We cannot speak too highly of Cascarets." FRED WARTMAN, 6708 Germantown Ave., Philadelphia, Pa.

FOR CONSTIPATION.

"I have gone 14 days at a time without movement of the bowels. Chronic constipation for seven years placed me in this terrible condition; I did everything I heard of but never found any relief until I began using CASCARETS. I now have from one to three passages a day, and if I was rich I would give $10,000 for each movement; it is such a relief." AYLMER L. HUNT, 1689 Russell St., Detroit, Mich.

FOR BILIOUSNESS.

"I have used your valuable CASCARETS and find them perfect. Couldn't do without them. I have used them for some time for indigestion and biliousness and am now completely cured. Recommend them to every one. Once tried, you will never be without them in the family." EDW. A. MARX, Albany, N. Y.

FOR WORMS.

"A tape worm eighteen feet long at least came on the scene after my taking two CASCARETS. This I am sure has caused my bad health for the past three years. I am still taking Cascarets, the only cathartic worthy of notice by sensible people." GEO. W. BOWLES, Baird, Miss.

FOR DYSPEPSIA.

"For six years I was a victim of dyspepsia in its worst form. I could eat nothing but milk toast, and at times my stomach would not retain and digest even that. Last March I began taking CASCARETS and since then I have steadily improved, until I am as well as I ever was in my life." DAVID H. MURPHY, Newark, O.

FOR LAZY LIVER.

"I have been troubled a great deal with a torpid liver, which produces constipation. I found CASCARETS to be all you claim for them, and secured such relief the first trial that I purchased another supply and was completely cured. I shall only be too glad to recommend Cascarets whenever the opportunity is presented." J. A. SMITH, 2220 Susquehanna Ave., Philadelphia, Pa.

FOR BAD BLOOD.

"CASCARETS do all claimed for them and are a truly wonderful medicine. I have often wished for a medicine pleasant to take, and at last have found it in CASCARETS. Since taking them my blood has been purified and my complexion has improved wonderfully, and I feel much better in every way." MRS. SALLIE E. SELLARS, Luttrell, Tenn.
